November 7 Dinner Program

At Ivar’s Salmon House: Shallow Draft Purse Seiners

Our evening presentation will be an update of how and why Shallow Draft Purse Seiners have changed their shape these last years. Brent Morrison, of Glosten Associates, will lead us through a PowerPoint presentation. Brent is a Staff Engineer/Ocean Engineer at The Glosten Associates. He received his Naval Engineering training at the Webb Institute of Naval Engineers located at Glen Cove, New York.

Nothing in the world is static and certain fishing boats are included. Brent will give us a history of the Webb Institute, the premier Naval Engineering college in the United States, as well.

Seattle is a fish boat city. This presentation should bring us up to date on this particular style boat.

Maritime Research Center at MOHAI Resource Center

Open by Appointment…Until Closure for Final Work

Research appointments and inquiries are now being accepted in our new Georgetown location with access to our books, periodicals, archival materials and photographs. Call us at 206-812-5464 or email research@pugetmaritime.org for an appointment.

If you are considering ordering a photo as a holiday gift, please do so before mid-November. We anticipate that we will be closed again mid-November through December as additional modifications are made to the MOHAI library space.
Gearing Up For The New MOHAI At Lake Union Park

Looking for Volunteers During the MOHAI Opening

Would you like to help sell raffle tickets or help children with a craft project in the Maritime Gallery during MOHAI's opening December 27-January 3? If so, please contact Karen Marshall for details at 206-812-5464 or email admin@pugetmaritime.org.

First Round of MOHAI Decent and Ambassador Training Begins October 24

If you love to talk with people, MOHAI is still looking for museum docents and we are looking for Maritime Gallery Ambassadors. Contact Karen at PSMHS or Kimberly Jacobsen with MOHAI for additional details at kimberlyjacobson@seattlehistor.org.

Fall Intern: Welcome Dylan Joy

We welcome Dylan Joy to our volunteer ranks this fall. He is a second year student in the Master in Library and Information Science program at the University of Washington. Dylan is going to be working on several projects in our Maritime Research Center including developing a comprehensive plan to integrate our archival records into our database system. He will be working closely with Library Coordinator Lisa Rose.

Annual Fund Drive Coming Soon!

It is that time of year again when soon we will be mailing out our 2012 Annual Fund Appeal asking for your contributions beyond your membership dollars to support the work of the Society. If you would like to save us postage costs, you can donate to the Annual Fund Drive on our website pugetmaritime.org. Just click on the link under the Annual Fund header and follow the instructions to make a donation. We appreciate your support above and beyond your membership.
