Sept. 4 Evening Program at Ivar’s Salmon House:

ADVENTURESS STORIES FROM 100 YEARS

Join Ken Greff and Catherine Collins of Sound Experience during ADVENTURESS’ celebratory centennial year as they recount stories from her history of Arctic exploration, bar pilot service, youth sail-training and environmental education - and how an ambitious multi-year restoration project, with just one more phase to go this coming winter, will keep ADVENTUESS sailing for generations to come.

Ken Greff is a professional educator and avid Northwest sailor who began sailing on ADVENTURESS in 1979. Early in his career as a school psychologist he was inspired by the 1976 bicentennial parade of sail in New York which showcased the positive character building experiences which sail training on tall ships created for youth and went looking for a tall ship in local waters. ADVENTURESS had a volunteer program which provided access so Ken signed aboard. Working his way up from volunteer crew to mate, sailing master and eventually ship captain, he also served on the board of Directors of Youth Adventure at the time the ship was sold to Sound Experience and then recruited to join the Sound Experience Board of Directors where he has served as chair of the ship committee overseeing the restoration of the ship for over a decade. Recently elected board President, he is delighted to be part of the leadership team promoting the mission of Sound Experience as ADVENTURESS celebrates her centennial and sails strong into her second century of service.

Catherine Collins has been Executive Director since 2006. With an MBA and more than two decades in nonprofit fundraising and management, Catherine has helped raise nearly $1 million in capital funds for ADVENTURESS’ restoration in recent years from federal, state and private funders. She has worked for national youth development / service organizations including Outward Bound and City Year, and previously spent a decade building economies with ACCION USA - a subsidiary of worldwide microfinance leader ACCION International. Catherine grew up sailing Cape Cod waters. Her passion for environmental education aboard ships was influenced by her experience in 1993 as a volunteer educator aboard the CLEARWATER on New York’s Hudson River. In 2012, she was appointed to the Washington State Governor’s Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.

Volunteer Spotlight: Richard “Dick” Warren

Dick Warren joined PSMHS in 1962 with a keen interest in preserving the WAWONA. Since that time he’s been involved in many different aspects of the organization: as a board member in the 1960s, as author of articles for THE SEA CHEST, as a member of THE SEA CHEST Editorial Board and now his latest adventure as a PSMHS Ambassador at MOHAI. Dick decided to become an ambassador to promote the Society at MOHAI and help visitors learn more about our maritime heritage.

Thank you so much Dick for your many years of dedication to PSMHS and your time and effort as an ambassador!

BACK TO SCHOOL with the PSMHS Maritime History Kit

Since 2011, a maritime history kit has been available from PSMHS for classroom use. Designed to be integrated into levels 5 – 8, the kit explores four topics: History, Communication, the Shipyard and Navigation. Each topic is covered by using lesson plans in the Dunn & Dunn Learning Styles Model and EALRs are noted for each section. The History section focuses on the history of trade, immigration, recreation and transport in the Puget Sound area using artifacts and photographs and students create a skit. The Communication section focuses on maritime signal flags and involves the students in an art project. The Shipyard section focuses on buoyancy, shipyard lingo, and knot tying, integrating science and history. The Navigation section utilizes nautical charts and navigational tools to lead students on various “treasure” hunts, incorporating history and mathematics.

In addition to actual maritime artifacts and photographs, the trunk contains lesson plans, books, maps, evaluations and supplemental materials for background information. The kit was designed and produced by Valerie Johnson for her University of Washington Master’s Thesis. The kit can be checked out for a two week period through our PSMHS office and can be picked up either in Georgetown or at MOHAI at South Lake Union Park.
